

About Spectrum Training

The past...

Spectrum began in 2010 as Spectrum Contemporary Christian Studies dedicated to providing courses for people on subjects relating the Christian Faith to issues in our contemporary culture (see About Spectrum 2010-2016).

The present...

Now Spectrum Contemporary Christian Studies has become Spectrum Training.

The position...

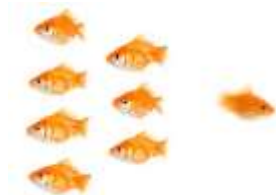

Spectrum Training is inter-denominational and works with all kinds of churches, denominations and Christian organisations.

The purpose...

Spectrum Training provides strategic training for the church in areas concerning local mission, communication and culture.

The foundation...

Spectrum Training understands that both the Bible as the authoritative Word of God and the Spirit of God, who has been given to the church of God, are of primary importance as we seek to do the mission of God.

The framework...

Spectrum Training recognises that all human life happens in particular cultures and contexts and an understanding of such cultures and contexts is essential in being effective Christian communicators.

The core value...

Spectrum Training acknowledges that we are all still learning; hence we all have much to give and much to receive. We therefore should not be dogmatic or judgemental but respect one another's viewpoint.

The way it works...

You organise and publicise what you want and we come and deliver the training. Occasionally, Spectrum Training will organise its own training event.

The cost...

You tell us what you want and we will let you know the cost. This will depend on the length of the training and where you are.

The training...

The training will be of high quality and delivered by Spectrum Trainers.